The Mining and Quarrying Occupational Health and Safety Committee ('MAQOHSC') aims to promote high occupational health and safety standards to prevent injury and disease in the mining and quarrying industry within South Australia.

The Committee was established under the Occupational Health, Safety and Welfare Act, 1986 and continues existence under the Work Health & Safety Act 2012 (SA). Its principal function is to administer expenditure from the Mining and Quarrying Industries Fund.

Projects

The Act provides that the Committee may utilise the fund for the following purposes:

- To promote and support practices and procedures designed to protect workers from silicosis.
- To support education in occupational health and safety in the mining and quarrying industries.
- To initiate or support research and studies into occupational health and safety that could benefit workers in the industries.
- To promote and support people or organisations working to prevent, alleviate, or treat the kinds of disabilities suffered by workers in the industries.
- To support any other kind of activity that could directly or indirectly improve occupational health and safety or assist rehabilitation of disabled workers in those industries.

The Self Insurers of South Australia (SISA) is an incorporated association that represents most of South Australia's largest private and public sector employers that are self-insured under the South Australian Return to Work Act 2014. Our membership represents about 38% of the State's employment by remuneration.

SISA was first incorporated on 3rd August 1984 as the Employer Managed Workers Compensation Association (EMWCA). Although it was known as SISA for many years beforehand, the name was officially changed from EMWCA to SISA in November 2005.

SISA is recognised as the sole representative organisation for self insured employers. It provides its member organisations with assistance and support in their interactions with the return to work scheme and promotes best practice in the prevention and management of workplace injuries.
